

IRISH PEOPLE, "AT WAR," OBJECT TO PEACE FETE

Dublin Officials Ask Lord Mayor
Not to Recognize Saturday as Holiday.

DUBLIN, July 16.—All grades of officials of the City Corporation have signed a memorial to the Lord Mayor of Dublin asking him not to recognize July 16, Peace Day, as a holiday, on the ground that "a state of war exists between the British Government and the Irish people and the latter do not desire to participate in peace celebrations."

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion and complexion beautifier at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.—Advt.

POOR DISTRIBUTION MAKES CHEAP FISH HIGH PRICED FOOD

Housewives Blamed for Failing to Buy the Kinds That Are in Season.

With the admission by large dealers that to-day, in the height of the fishing season, cold storage fish is being sold to the New York public, The Evening World has surveyed the fish markets of the city in an endeavor to find why America's greatest port is without an adequate supply of sea foods. Fish prices are high throughout New York, and many of the smaller dealers are without fish entirely or carry only one or two kinds.

Lying within a few hours run of the great off-shore fishing banks, the city is poorly supplied with fish at best, and imports much of its supply by rail from other coast cities. Fish is brought from Canada and the West Coast, and a large supply comes from Boston and Baltimore.

The answer lies in poor distributing facilities in the city, and in lack of interest of the buying public. Even now fish is the cheapest of foods. Housewives, however, when purchasing, buy only a few standard and well-known varieties of fish, ignoring the cheaper and little known kinds which come in large quantities to the market.

FISH MARKET LICENSES TO CURB GAMBLING.

Almost all the fish sold in the city comes through the Fulton Fish Market, at Fulton Street and the East River. At the wharves here small fishing smacks from the Long Island and Jersey coasts unload, and steam trawlers bring in their catch from sea. The market is a great distributing center to the thousands of small dealers and careful housewives could easily avail themselves of the wide choice of fish, and the cheaper prices prevailing there. It is primarily a wholesale market and no fish orders for less than ten pounds are taken, but with such prices as 5 and 6 cents the pound for whiting and 12 and 15 for flounder a big saving could be made.

Forty dealers and about 125 fishermen comprise the market. Each dealer has his separate stall, his clientele of retail dealers and his list of fishermen for whom he acts as middleman receiving a 12½ per cent. commission on the sales. There is intense competition, and although this is a fine thing for the fisherman who gets his 57½ per cent., it is a poor thing for the retailer who finds prices varying widely from minute to minute.

The fish market greatly resembles the curb market. It is a gamble in the price of fish. High demand and low supply at once force up prices—over-supply and low demand cause tremendous sudden drops in prices. There is a different price list for each of the forty-two fish dealers' stalls—and the retailer, coming in perhaps once a week for Thursday and Friday's supply of fish, doesn't even know where he stands. His butterfly may cost 15 cents a pound at one stall and 10 cents at the next. And by the time he has gone back to the first stall it may have jumped the price there to 20 cents. It's a shrewd buying on a gambling chance with the stall owner, but that isn't good for the housewife who may buy the fish. She will pay for his loss—a fact quickly shown by a comparison of Fulton Market prices with the prices in up-town retail stores. What is lost one week must be gained the next, and the retailer keeps his prices up.

RETAIL MARKETS BARE AND PRICES UNUSUALLY HIGH.

An Evening World reporter who to-day visited fish stores in Harlem, Washington Heights and Morningside Heights found everywhere the same conditions of a small supply of only a few well known varieties of fish demanded by the housewives. Comparative prices in cents per pound follow:

Fish	Fulton Market	Retail
Blue Fish	12.50	15.00
Sea Bass	15.00	18.00
Butterfish	12.50	15.00
Flounder	12.50	15.00
Shad	12.50	15.00
Shrimp	12.50	15.00

The retail prices are not extortionate, but they show plainly the condition of a market that permits a retail sale at less than wholesale prices. Dealers explain that perhaps the 38 cent bluefish had been held over from the lower prices of a few days ago. It shows also that while such good edible fish as bonita, sea bass and cod are offered at low prices in the wholesale market they cannot be had at retail.

Retailers to-day were unanimous in their condemnation of the "telephone buyer" as being responsible for much of the profiteering on the part of unscrupulous dealers. "They take what they get, and they don't care what price they pay," said one dealer. "Is it any wonder that they are cheated? They ought to remember that our fish don't wait till Thursday to be caught, that the fish in season are cheaper than some fancy fish that come out of cold storage. Right now the whiting are running off Cape Cod. A fine fish, firm white meat and lots of flavor. They are selling for 6 cents a pound wholesale, and 10 and 12 retail. But we have no demand for them, as the people buy bluefish and halibut at high prices."

GERMANS PLAN FOR TRADE.

Will Send an Army of Experts to Foreign Lands.

BERLIN, July 17.—Creation of a small army of technical and business experts is being planned in Germany as part of an energetic drive to restore her business relations in foreign lands.

These agents will be sent forth to all the leading countries of the world, either as "business lance" investigators, or as attachés of German embassies and consulates.

The mission of the Government experts will be to gather data in all lines of trade. They will endeavor to foster better relations between German business and the business of the country to which they are attached.

M'CORMACK BUYS ESTATE.

Tenor Purchases Old Stokes Farm of 120 Acres in Connecticut.

The Henry L. Stoddard estate, formerly the Stokes Farm, partly in Darien and partly in Noroton, Conn., has been purchased by John McCormack, the tenor. It consists of 120 acres and was sold for a price said to be close to $500,000, through Laurence Timmons.

The same broker sold the estate owned by Sidney A. Williams in Thrushwood Park, Riverside, Conn., to Walter A. Moore of Greenwich. This property was sold at $150,000.
